Box No. V Reasoned statement under Rule 43 bis.1(a)(i) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Statement

Novelty (N)	Claims 1-35	YES
	Claims NONE	NO
Inventive step (IS)	Claims 1-35	YES
	Claims NONE	NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims 1-35	YES
	Claims NONE	NO

2. Citations and explanations:

Claims 1-3 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2)-(3), because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a wireless communication system comprising: a plurality of base stations and at least one repeater, the at least one repeater comprises: a receiver for receiving a primary signal; a transmitter for transmitting a first signal; a modification circuit for modifying the primary signal into the first signal, the modification circuit comprising: a cyclic shift register, a signal multiplier and a signal adder; the cyclic shift register and the receiver being connected to inputs of the signal multiplier, the receiver and output of the signal multiplier being connected to inputs of the signal adder, and, the output of the signal adder being connected to the transmitter.

Claims 4-16 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2)-(3), because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a communication system including a primary receiver, a primary transmitter, and a repeater that applies a known modification to a primary signal passing there through that identifies the repeater, where the primary receiver receives a first signal from the primary transmitter either directly or via the repeater, and where the first signal includes a primary signal and, if the first signal is received from the repeater, also includes a secondary signal that is a function of the primary communication signal and the known modification applied by the repeater, the method of determining if a signal received by the primary receiver is received directly from the primary transmitter or indirectly through the repeater, comprising the steps of: receiving the first signal at the primary receiver; outputting the primary signal from the primary receiver; receiving the first signal at a secondary receiver and obtaining the primary signal from the primary receiver; applying an inverse function of the first signal and the primary signal to retrieve a modification; and determining whether the first signal has been received from the repeater by comparison of the modification and the known modification.

Claims 17-23 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2)-(3) because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a communication system including a first node, a second node, and a repeater, wherein the first node receives a first signal from the second node either directly or via the repeater, a method of applying a known distortion to a signal to enable a determination of a signal received by the first node is received directly from the second node or indirectly through the repeater, comprising the steps of: at the repeater receiving a primary signal and creating a secondary signal as a function of the primary signal and a known modification, wherein the known modification identifies the repeater; and transmitting the primary signal injected with the secondary signal as the first signal to the primary receiver.

Claims 24-35 meet the criteria set out in PCT Article 33(2)-(3) because the prior art does not teach or fairly suggest a wireless communication system having one or more repeaters, a first node and a second node, a method of determining if a signal received at the first node is received directly or via one of the one or more repeaters comprising: creating, at the one or more repeaters, a composite signal $w(t)$ that is a function $f(r(t), s(t))$ of a primary signal $s(t)$ received from the second node and a known identification signal $rk(t)$, where $rk(t)$ is unique for each of the one or more repeaters; transmitting the composite signal to the first node; detecting at the first node the primary signal $s(t)$; determining an identification signal $r(t)$ from an inverse function $g(w(t), s(t))$ of the composite signal $w(t)$ and the primary signal $s(t)$, where g is the inverse of f ; and determining if the signal is received via the one or more repeaters based at least in part by the identification signal and the known identification signals of the one or more repeaters.
